Forward

“By all accounts, 2018 should be the rise of the 3rd generation style cryptocurrency platforms. Decentralized ICOs, decentralized exchanges, high transactions-per-second capabilities, white labeled wallets, turn-key blockchain asset solutions... things that aim right at NEO and Ethereum to take aim at the growing Blockchain Startup sector.

“It’s no mystery that even after the latest Ethereum network updates that ETH has major scaling issues, and with every ICO makes for another straw on an already struggling camel’s back. As such, it’s truly only a matter of time before the new kids on the block take the reins and become platforms of choice for companies that want to launch into a Blockchain ecosystem that can process their ‘potential’ scale down the road.

“Everyone in business, technology, blockchain, brick and mortar, or otherwise understands clearly the truth, if it’s doesn’t scale – it’s stale. That’s not to say that Ethereum won’t see improvements over the months or years ahead, and it’ll probably see a lot of positive price action as small teams continue to jump on the ERC20 bandwagon to launch their projects repeatedly.

“Rest assured, we’re the fuse is lit, and these third gen platforms of choice will be the place not only businesses look to, but consumers as well – due to the very nature of how ICO’s operate, as well as how ICO’s shape consumer sentiment in the validation of those platforms with every new project that is launched using their Blockchains.”
